Base Ball Briefs.

The Senators will be "up against the real thing" at Chicago today. Perhaps Messrs, Bonner and Padden are not playing fast ball! Twenty chances without an error!

What a great thing it would be if Mercer would get into the same and round out that Jack O'Brien managed to place two safe its yesterday, and it is to be hoped he will ontinue his good work. If the veteran Weyhing is supported well today he has a good chance of landing another victory for the Senators, and we will in double figures on the winning the column.

Looking over the championship table it will be found that the last five clubs are quite closely bunched. New York, Pitts-burg and Louisville have only won 11 games against 9 by the Senators.

Maybe the eastern clubs are not knocking down the western end of the league with monotonous regularity. Cincipnati is about the only club that is holding its own, and at that they have only a shade the better of it. The Senators' outfield is doing pretty good

The Senators' outfield is doing pretty good work also, batting, fielding and base running considered. The trio didn't have an error yesterday, and they made 7 of the 13 hits, Freeman getting two singles and a triple.

ness in ball games," said Jack Doyle last night. "I have gained the reputation of being a scrappy player and ruffian because being a scrappy player and ruffian because I have been fighting for my team's interest on the field, but I shall do it no more. For this reason I am glad that I am no longer the field captain. In that position I would be sure to say something during a hot game that would offend some player. I intend to play my game and work just as hard as ever to win in the duture, but I will cut out that scrappy business. I have come to the conclusion that there is nothing in it. It only makes me unpopular. I am going to settle down. There was a time when I enjoyed a scrap and quarrel on the field, but that time is past. I am going to attend strictly to business, but from this on I am going to be a gentleman on the field."—Cincinnati Tribune. One of the sections of the new balk rule One of the sections of the new balk rule got its first outing yesterday. This occurred at Louisville, when, in the ninth inning, with the score a te and a runner on third base, Manager Hallon ordered his pitcher to give the batsma, a base on balls. The catcher stepped ou side his box, and when the first ball was delivered Umpire Emsile declared a balk, according to the section which reads: "If the pitcher delivers the ball to the bat when the catcher is standing outside the lines of the catcher's position, it tons, August 5, October 16.

ball to the bat when the catcher is standing outside the lines of the catcher's position, it shall be declared a balk." The balk permitted the runner on third base to walk home with the winning run. The most surprising part of the play is that a manager who is supposed to be as sharp as Hanlon was the first to be caught on it.
